CALIFORNIA BRANCH OF THE RED CROSS IS ORGANIZED

Meeting is Well Attended by Representative Body of Citizens

NORMAL TOWN ENTHUSIASTIC

The California Branch of the American Red Cross Society, and which will be affiliated with the Charleroi Chapter, was organized on Friday evening in the Union school hall at California.

A number of Charleroi people interested in the work were present, arriving in the Normal town by automobile at 7:30 o'clock, when they were received in a most cordial manner by the California citizens.

Immediately after the arrival of the Charleroi contingent the meeting was opened, the invocation being pronounced by Rev. Dr. Fowles, pastor of the Methodist church, after which the audience sang the National anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner." The meeting was then called to order by Dr. Martin and Hon. Frank Craven was elected permanent chairman, with Frank McCue of the First National bank as secretary. With these preliminaries out of the way the meeting then proceeded to the selection of the various committees, the most important of which were the executive and the enrollment. C. N. Sayage was elected chairman of the executive committee and Dr. A. B. Linhart chairman of the enrollment.

After this work was completed H. J. Booth of the Charleroi Chapter explained in detail the workings of the several committees, giving the very clear idea of the many duties which will devolve upon them in the carrying on of the Red Cross work. He also asked that the several committee chairman call at the Charleroi headquarters, where the work could be gone over more in detail, and where all information in connection with the American Red Cross would be available at all times.

The California Branch starts off under the most encouraging auspices, the attendance at the meeting last night being representative of the town, and showing a degree of enthusiasm which indicates that the Normal town will be an important factor in the work of the Red Cross.

CALLS A MEETING OF RED CROSS CHAIRMEN

The chairman of the General Executive Committee of the Charleroi Chapter of the Red Cross wishes to meet with the District Chairman, at Red Cross headquarters, the Charleroi Real Estate company office, this evening at 8 o'clock. If these members will be prompt in reporting at the time specified they will confer a favor on the District Chairman.

FARM AND COAL SOLD FOR APPROXIMATELY $200,000

The Davis farm of 225 acres including all the coal in Charters township, near Canonsburg, was recently sold for $200,000. It is said that Westmoreland county parties were the purchasers, and that a mine will be opened in the near future.

CIVILIANS MUST RETURN ALL MILITARY CLOTHING

The war department has made a demand that all military clothing be gathered up, and that civil officers be used in regaining possession, if necessary. After the return of the troops from the border last fall a number of them sold some of their clothing and equipment. This was a violation of law, and now the department is after the soldier who sold the goods, and the civilian who has them in his possession. At the present time the government is badly in need of clothing for its soldiers and is making every effort to have all clothing returned to the various quartermaster depots.

MEDICAL CORPS CALLED TO DUTY

for Service

REGIMENT FOLLOWS IN JULY

Dr. Francis Linn of Monongahela, Dr. Richard S. Runion of Canonsburg and Dr. Schaffer of Somerset of the Tenth Regiment, N. G. P. medical corps, have been requested to report at Connellsville, the headquarters of the medical corps. Not all of the corps has been ordered out. These physicians will go into training preparatory to the calling out of the entire regiment, which will likely be the latter part of July or early in August. The Tenth regiment is rapidly being recruited to war strength of 2000 men, including officers and privates, the machine gun company at the present time being brought up to 60 members. When this has been accomplished the supply and headquarters companies will also be brought up to the required number. The greater majority of the Companies of the Regiment are now recruited to 150 men, war strength, with the likelihood of all of them making returns of full rolls by the middle of July.

A great day is expected for Sunday. The following is the program: Class meeting 9:15. Sunday school 9:45. Preaching sermon at 10:45, with the sermon by Dr. N. I. Brown, of Waynesburg, Pa., and at the close of the services the Anniversary offering.

CANONSBURG MERCHANTS TO TAKE HALF HOLIDAYS

Beginning with the week of July 12, and ending August 23, Canonsburg merchants will observe a half holiday each week. This feature was decided upon at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday night last.

The C. W. S. A. will have nourishing, but economical food for sale at Haube's this afternoon and evening. Recipes given with everything 7-12.

GLASS COMPANY MAKES A NICE CONTRIBUTION

The American Window Glass company, which has a large factory at Belle Vernon, has contributed $1,000 to the Monessen-Belle Vernon Chapter of the American Red Cross, and the money has already been turned over to the treasurer of the society. The Monessen-Belle Vernon Chapter is making excellent progress with its financial campaign, as well as membership, and is snapping its affairs in an excellent manner for doing effective work.

DEAL FOR MACHINE PLANT HAS BEEN COMPLETED

The deal for the old Robinson Machine company plant at New Eagle was completed on Thursday, and on Friday a number of workmen began cleaning up about the works, preparatory to getting things in running order. The company will manufacture what is known as high speed steel, and will employ a large number of skilled mechanics. The plant has been idle for a number of years, following the expiration of a lease held by the Pittsburgh Coal company, which for a time used the plant as a repair shop. The Metz Steel company is the corporation which took over the plant.

HAS SISTER IN CHARLEROI

Pana, Illinois, authorities are searching for Mrs. Anna Domonowsky who on Tuesday afternoon, June 12, deserted her family in that town, and whose whereabouts at the present time is unknown.

The Ill. authorities believe the woman came to Charleroi, where she is said to have a sister living, and whose husband is said to be a foreman in one of the local glass factories.

According to the story told by the Daily Palladium, of Pana, when Frank Domonowsky returned from his work in the Petwell mines Tuesday afternoon he found his children playing with a neighboring child at the Domonowsky home, but his wife could not be found. She had left him a short time before and had not returned. The children did not know where she had gone, as she had not told them when she would return.

At first Mr. Domonowsky was not uneasy, but as the evening wore away and his wife did not return he became anxious, and he spent the greater part of the night in searching the town and watching trains, hoping to get some trace of his wife, but he could find nothing that would give him a clue as to where she was. It was learned that the woman earlier in the afternoon had made some purchases at the Penwell dry goods store in Pana, after which apparently all trace of her was lost. There is no assurance that the woman came to Charleroi; this is merely a supposition, but it is possible she may have come to this state, in which case it would be very natural for her to seek out her relatives.

RED CROSS ENROLLMENT REACHING 1500 MARK

The enrollment for the Charleroi Chapter of the American Red Cross is increasing in a very encouraging manner, about 1550 names having been reported up until Friday morning. The local campaign will close Monday next, at which time the officers of the Chapter hope to have enough enlistments to make up the 3,000 membership, the goal set for the present campaign. So far the appeal of the Red Cross has been met with a ready response, and the committee feels encouraged in the belief that Charleroi will not fail to come up to its usual standard of more than 100 per cent.

THE PAGEANT OF METHODISM

Epworth League Will Present it Next Tuesday Evening

SHOWS PROGRESS OF CHURCH

The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church, next Tuesday evening, June 26. The pageant is divided into four episodes, the first having five movements, or scenes, the second eight, and the third four, while the fourth and final episode of the play represents the church at work.

The costumes worn by the players represent the periods of 1776 and 1860, the various performers appearing in the styles of dress that were popular at the periods mentioned.

The opening of Episode One represents the beginning of Methodism in England, in which the Wesleys are the central characters, concluding with John Wesley's last open air sermon in the closing years of his life.

Episode Two shows the beginning of Methodism in America in 1760—when a party of pilgrims landed in New York, and the scenes enacted follow very closely to historical lines.

Episode Three represents the days of the circus rider, in which some stirring scenes are enacted, the second movement portraying the preacher militant, when men of the cloth had to be able to preserve order in their churches as well as preach.

The Fourth Episode shows the church at work and it is presented in symbolic form, with processional, banners and tableaux.

The members of the Society who are to take part in the pageant have been busy for a number of weeks preparing themselves for this presentation, which promises to be of more than ordinary interest to members of the congregation, as well as friends of the church.

OILED SHOES LAST.

Elderly people remember the time when nearly every citizen, outside of the populous centers if not in them, oiled his shoes partly in order to soften them but chiefly in order to make them last longer. A prosperous and thrifty generation has long since forgotten all about this useful precaution and in such times as these the Department of Agriculture has done well to publish a reminder. The Department's bulletin recommends castor-oil for fine polished shoes but tallow of pioneer memory being desirable or sufficient for rougher foot wear. We learn also that soles should be treated with linseed oil occasionally, and everybody is advised to have heels repaired as soon as they show signs of wear.

A commenting editor remarks that the Department has not made any new discovery in domestic science or told anything that was not known before. We venture to say that the proposition of oiling shoes will be new to millions of the younger generation. In any case the reminder is timely and ought to be useful when shoes are bringing record prices and are likely to cost still more now that the government is buying them by the million pairs. For this reason the newspapers ought to pass the suggestion and recommendations along for the benefit of the multitudes never likely to see the Department's bulletin. The thrifty man who sees to it that the shoes of his family are oiled as often as needful will be well repaid for the small outlay in fore-

THE DECLINING MARK

Prominent world financiers are commencing to take a keen interest in the situation in Germany as regards the financial structure for the steady decline of the mark indicates more clearly to them than military activities the approach or the time when there will be a general breaking down of those forces that have for so long managed to carry on this war against ever increasing odds. The advent of the United States in the war is now known to have been the final and crushing blow to confidence, for it sent glimmering all ideas among neutrals that Germany had any chance to win. Furthermore, the stupendous mobilization activities in the United States, showing as they do a grim determination to utilize every possible force in prosecuting the war, have but added to this realization as a lost hope.

German business men are attempting by every means possible to convert all kinds of holdings into the currency of neutral countries, and this is an indication to the financiers of the Allies that they see the handwriting on the wall and are preparing to cast the Kaiser to the winds and look out for themselves.

German wives of foreign kings ought to learn that it is not their chief duty to henpeck their husbands in the interests of Berlin's arms. What happened to the Czar of Russia was an impressive warning and the evulsion of the Kaiser's sister's husband from the throne of Greece is another, showing that a woman's meddling in politics with Teutonic persistence is a risky business.

In these times aeroplanes are an army's eyes, without which it is practically blind. The billion dollars the Administration will ask for the equipment and training of a great air fleet would be well invested, the only question being whether we can afford that much in addition to the vast expenditures already made and to come.

A German editor searches in vain for "a moving tragedy of the world" that can parallel "the ravishment of a whole people" involved in the forced abdication of King Constantine of Greece. Perhaps he never heard of Belgium, but he must have heard that Greece was bound by treaty to go to Serbia's assistance in war, that the Greek people have always sympathized with the allies and that only the King—hen-pecked by his wife, the Kaiser's sister—stood for Germany to the last.

The interesting news comes that the Germans now hate Americans even more than Englishmen. This is saying a good deal, after all the shrieking of "England we hate" in verse, prose and by mouth. The Germans excel in hatred and all other nations must yield the palm. We of America would not hate the Germans in turn even if we had time for such a foolish exhaustion of energy. We merely feel that, for the world's good and our own, they need a straight-jacket, and that we must help to put them in it, but there is no more rage in our hearts than there would be if we were engaged in crying a dangerous wild beast that has been running amuck.

GARDEN COLUMN

By National Emergency Food Garden Commission

It is not too early now for the war gardener to begin thinking about canning his surplus products, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission co-operating with this newspaper in urging food production and conservation.

Not only the garden surplus should be canned, but when vegetables are plentiful in the markets, the patriotic housewife will help save civic waste by preserving all the vegetables that her purse will allow. If vegetables are high in price the plea is likely to be made that it does not pay to can them. But this year, when every ounce of food saved counts in the great total cost of preservation should not be taken into consideration as a barrier to thrift. If vegetables are expensive now, think what they will be when the snow flies.

The average housekeeper, when told to can vegetables is likely to throw up her hands in despair. This will be because she does not know the latest discoveries of science in food canning. She knows only the old way of "putting up" perishables—by cooking them thoroughly and then packing them in cans. This method is not successful with most vegetables. It is not too successful with fruit, as many a housekeeper can testify who has gone to the fruitshelf in winter to find some of her choicest jars moldy, sour, or working. And the old method is costly, too, because it demands rich syrups and heavily spiced mixtures.

The latest development in food canning is by sterilization. Under this system fruits and vegetables, well or slightly cooked as the case may be, are preserved by a process which kills all germ life in three and a half hours after they are completely or partially sealed.

It is cheaper and easier to preserve food by sterilization than by the old cooking method of canning and moreover, it is even easier to put up vegetables than fruits by this method. In succeeding bulletins will be given the directions for home sterilization.

Italians Devise Aerial Cable Line to Move Guns to Mountainous Positions

This remarkable picture gives an idea of the difficulties under which the Italian Army operates in the Trentino Alps. It shows a huge gun being transported across a deep gorge in the mountains suspended from a cable in mid-air. All heavy guns must travel this aerial route, for there are no roads in these snow covered mountains. The lines to the Trentino where the great Italian drive is in progress, is one mountainous range after another and only light arms, ammunition and small field pieces can be carried over the precipitous heights. Italian engineers devised this means of moving heavy guns to the mountain positions by stretching a cable from one peak to another. The guns are figuratively swung across the gaping gorges and small engines used to pull them up to their positions.

Daring French Airman Patrols "Beat" in Clouds 8,000 Feet Above Trenches

Probably the most feared single aviator in the French Army is Captain Geynemer, who alone has accounted for more than forty enemy airmen during the war. Recently he added four to his long list of victims after a fierce battle in the skies. This remarkable picture shows the fearless Captain in the clouds more than 8,000 feet above the earth. It is one of the most remarkable photographs of an aeroplane patrolling a "beat" through the clouds above the trenches that has ever come to this country. The Captain is piloting a scout machine, the fighting bird, which is extensively used by the French. In this machine he has made most of his daring exploits in the air during the past few months.

USING A MEDICINE DROPPER.

The More Slanting It Is Held the Bigger the Drops Will Be.

When using a medicine dropper it is important to use it correctly, especially if measuring out drops of some powerful medicine like strychnine, morphine or arsenic, for drops vary widely in size.

Dr. H. P. Garrow of London recently reported to the Lancet the results of some experiments he had made with a medicine dropper and a simple solution. He measured the solution very carefully and then dropped it into a medicine bottle, from which he tilted it, drop by drop, holding the dropper at different angles and counting the drops as they fell.

With the dropper held vertically (at an angle of 90 degrees with the horizontal) its contents made 100 drops. Held at an angle of 50 degrees its contents made eighty-two drops; at 20 degrees they made sixty-eight drops, at 10 degrees they made sixty drops, and held horizontal they made only forty-eight drops.

In other words, the drops become progressively larger as the dropper is moved from the vertical position. A drop from a dropper held at an angle of 50 degrees is one-quarter larger than normal; thus, if the nurse has to give sixteen drops and holds the dropper slanting she is really giving twenty. And the more slanting the dropper the bigger the drops.

FALLS ONLY TO RISE.

An Experiment With a Sort of Perpetual Motion Effect.

A novel experiment in the demonstration of perpetual motion is to be performed simply. A glass beaker about six inches high and four inches in diameter is filled with water to the height of about four and a half inches, and two and one-half to three ounces of commercial aniline are added, which will sink to the bottom of the vessel.

The temperature of the beaker and its contents is now raised to 170 or 175 degrees F. by means of a burner, when it will be observed that the aniline will rise to the surface of the water, from which it will hang in a mass of curved outline. Almost immediately the suspended aniline commences to alter in shape, and gradually a large drop an inch or more in diameter detaches itself from the mass and falls through the water.

And now, the detached drop having fallen to the bottom of the beaker, comes the surprising part of the experiment. The fallen drop is seen gradually to rise to the surface, where it joins the mass from which it previously broke away. At once another drop commences to form and, having become detached, falls and rises in the same manner as the previous drop.

So long as the temperature of the water is maintained at 170 degrees or over this procedure continues.

The Chinese "Five Kings."

"The Five Kings" is the name of the sacred book in which is incorporated the religion of the Chinese as well as a great number of other peoples of the orient. The doctrine is a complex system of moral, social, political and religious teaching built up by Confucius on the ancient Chinese traditions, and although its author lived more than five centuries before the birth of Christ, it is still perpetuated as the state religion of the Chinese down to the present day. Confucianism is a religion without positive revelation, with a minimum of dogmatic teaching, whose popular worship is centered in offerings to the dead, in which the notion of duty is extended beyond the sphere of morals proper so as to embrace almost every detail of daily life.

Philippine Fruits.

There have been found in the Philippines two fruits entirely unknown to Europe and even to America. One of these is the durian, which grows on a lofty tree somewhat resembling an elm, is about as large as a coconut, has a husk shell and contains a creamy pulp which combines some of the flavors of delicious custard with those of a fine cheese. American soldiers in the Philippines have dubbed the durian the "vegetable hamburger." The other rare fruit is the mangosteen, but the exquisitely flavored liquid it contains has not yet been successfully preserved for shipping abroad.

Going to Extremes.

"I tell you what," said Gorham, containing his western cynicism, "everything is so high here it's almost impossible to keep a house going." "Well," replied the cousin "the winds are so high out our way it's almost impossible to keep a house from going."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

AT THE THEATRES

MAJESTIC-CHARLEROI

"The Final Payment" an intensely interesting William Fox production with Nance O'Neil, the emotional actress was the Monday picture at the Majestic theatre. The picture was complete, much attention being given to the working out of details. On Tuesday Jack Deveraux was presented in "American-That's All" "Forget-Me-Not," with beautiful Kitty Gordon in the leading role was the Wednesday attraction. It was a most highly dramatic offering. Many of the scenes were taken in Cuba and were of remarkable beauty. Charles Ray appeared in the role of a young millionaire who wagers he can live on six dollars a week and gets a job in the factory in "The Millionaire Vagrant" which was shown Thursday. Many exciting incidents made the picture one out of the ordinary. For the Friday picture Essie Barrisole appeared as a mountain girl in the Triangle play "Bawls O' Blue Ridge," the story is a fantastic comedy drama of the romantic Blue Ridge hills.

COYLE-CHARLEROI

Herbert Rawlinson enacted the leading role of "Wildfire" which was the featuring attraction at the Coyle theatre Monday. The picture showed this famous star in an interesting interpretation and at his best. The concluding installment of the serial, "The Great Secret" was also shown. Tuesday, Marie Doro, whose beauty and genius have made her one of the popular screen idols, was shown in "Heart's Desire." "The Soul of a Magdalen" a play of a girl's sacrifice for her mother was presented Wednesday with Mme. Petrova in the stellar role. Margaret Illington, the distinguished star of the speaking stage, made her debut on the photodramatic screen in "Sacrifice" a gripping and vivid drama which was shown Thursday. The play was written especially for her by Charles Kenyon, thus giving her an opportunity to offer her best talents to the public. Douglas Fairbanks, the celebrated comedian was presented in "In Again-Out Again" an entertaining comedy which was shown Friday.

PALACE-CHARLEROI

The first part of the week an exceptionally good program was offered at the Palace theatre. Four acts of vaudeville and special pictures being featured. Theatre-goers throughout Greater Pittsburgh and its environs are going to be entertained during the week, beginning next Monday afternoon, June 25, by a collection of vaudeville artists of the first merit. In the New Davis Theatre every afternoon and evening, beginning, respectively at 2 and 8 o'clock, Managers Harry Davis and John P. Harris will offer a bill of nine acts and in addition a selection of motion pictures of important news events gathered by the camera in all parts of the world. The headline feature will be Joseph Santley, the gifted star of musical comedy, who is to make his vaudeville bow after an exceedingly successful run at the Palace Theatre in New York, in a miniature musical globe trot, called "The Girl in the Magazine." Mr. Santley has gathered a particularly attractive company for his excursion into the vaudeville. He is supported by pretty and clever Ivy Sawyer and a company of seven. They will be aided by Harry Neiman as musical director and a corps of artisans and stage mechanics who will see that the unique effects and pretty scenery are properly handled during the action of their little skit.

Fiji Islanders Almost Circle Globe to Serve in France as Stevedores

This group of sturdy Fiji Islanders are on their way to France to serve on transports and steamers as stevedores. They are now en route across the North American continent to board vessels at a Canadian port on the Atlantic for their destination. The photograph was taken in Honolulu, where the men were reviewed by General Strong, commanding the Hawaiian Department, where they stopped en route to Vancouver. The journey took them almost around the world, but they were as willing travelers as they are faithful workers. As a class they are well built, muscular men and are of a high order of intelligence, as their faces plainly indicate. They may be the vanguard of a greater number now ready to serve France in any capacity.

Tiny French Boy Salutes American Relief Workers in French Village

The American Commission for the relief of inhabitants of reconquered villages in France is doing an effective service among the hunger-ridden, ill-clad peasants. The accompanying picture shows Oscar Beatty, president of the relief commission, entering a village with a group of French Army officers after the retreat of the Germans. Mr. Beatty is exchanging a military salute with a tiny French boy, whose fond parent is holding him by the hand. The lad has been presented with a French soldier's cap which he is wearing as a special tribute to the invaders. The group of peasants have hurried to greet the French officers and American relief workers who are always among the first to reach the people after the recapture of territory by the Allies.

INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS TROLLEY POLE

Edna North Beam of 481½ Vernon avenue, employee of the Logue garage of that place had a narrow escape from serious injuries in Monongahela Friday evening, when her automobile struck a trolley pole near the Carlsburg mine trestle.

Beam was on the way from Pittsburgh to which she had driven a companion, and was running at a good rate of speed. When near the Carlsburg mine she saw a street car approaching as well as another automobile. At this point there is a very sharp turn in the street and in attempting to miss both street car and auto Beam ran her machine directly into one of the iron poles which carry the trolley line for the street car company. The impact of the auto against the pole was sufficient to throw Beam from her machine, brushing him considerably, while the machine, a Buick light six, was badly damaged.

Beam was at once taken to the Memorial hospital in Monongahela, where he was given treatment and he was able to leave the institution this afternoon.

It was afterward announced that the exemption regulations which have been before the President for several days would be made public, probably on Monday next.

The drafting itself will take place some time between the dates specified above, but not on the 4th of July, as that is a legal holiday. The names of those who comprise the conscription boards throughout the state will likely be announced within a few days.

The Great Tropical Belt
Between the thirtieth parallel of north latitude, which runs through New Orleans, north Africa, northern India and southern China, and the thirtieth parallel of south latitude, which cuts through southern Brazil, the southern tip of Africa and the southern part of Australia, is half the land area of the world outside the polar regions and one-half the world's population. Yet the commerce of this great tropical belt, with half the land area and half the world population, is but one-sixth that of the international commerce of the world, and it has but one-seventh of the world's railways despite the fact that the temperate zones are anxiously calling for its products or food and manufacturing material.

Where We Aim

William Dean Howells in one of his talks about literature said: "Good literature is always condemned on its first appearance. That is because, being original, it is new and strange. Shelley's work was utterly condemned at first. So was Coleridge's. So was Wordsworth's. So was Stephen Crane's." Mr. Howells paused, then added impressively, "Stories are only thrown at those trees which are heavy with fruit."

Not Melodiously Gifted.
"Don't you love our song, 'The Star Spangled Banner'?"
"I do," replied Senator Sorghum.
"Then why don't you join in the chorus?"
"My friend, the way for me to show real affection for a song is not to try to sing it."—Washington Star.

MUSTER OF THE NATIONAL GUARD MAY BE DELAYED

The muster of the National Guard into the Federal Armies of the United States may be delayed until August 5, because it has been found that under the present plans for drafting the Guard in three increments, July 15, July 25 and August 5, the relative rank of its officers would be established on an unequal basis. The National Defense Act provides that National Guard officers shall take rank as of date of muster.

The additional time gained by postponing the muster until August 5 would be valuable to the department in making ready the various divisional camp sites at which state forces will be mobilized, and also permit the assembling of additional equipment for the troops.
